

SPECIAL NOTICES.

MME. L. MACDONALD, PH. R. M. S. S. Washington's eminent photographer and portrait artist, has removed his studio to 1415 K Street, N.W., and will receive patrons at 1221 H. N. W. Phone 1415.

PERSONS WITH SAW, ACETONE, TOLUENE AND D. O. S. N. W. 1130 p.m. Friday, September 15, will please send names and addresses to Box 315, 1415 K Street, N.W.

DR. P. W. MURTON has moved his office from 2013 14th St. N.W. to 2001 14th St. N.W.

UNCOMMON PRINTING Sparkling and scintillating, with modern display artistically executed.

National Capital Press 511 11th St. Phone M. 650 (3 trunk lines).

Save Money on Safety Razor Blades

We reduce them at a very reasonable price, sterilize them and have them ready for you within 24 hours.

RUDOLPH & WEST CO. 1322 N. Y. Ave.

WE DO NOT ANNOUNCE THE REMOVAL OF OUR real estate offices from 302 East Capitol St. to our new building, 315 East Capitol St. List your vacant property with us.

Reduce Your "Overhead" expenses to a minimum by placing your roof under a GRAFTON'S GUARANTEE. We are experts at repairing and painting roofs. Write or phone for our estimate.

Grafton & Son, Inc., 421 12th St. N.W. Phone M. 700.

Superior Workmanship. This printing office is equipped with every modern appliance known to the printer's craft. We turn out the kind that pays in result.

Judd & Detweiler, Inc., THE BIG PRINT SHOP, 420-12th St. N.W. Have Your Eyeglasses Made to Order.

Don't take chances where your eyes are concerned. If you need Eyeglasses, consult us.

M. A. LEESE OPTICAL CO. 614 9th St. Let Us Put the Roof in good shape. You need experienced help when leaks occur—through, around, under, or on your roof. Consult us for the above. Work exclusively.

IRON CLAD Roofing, 526 13th St. N.W. Company, Phone Main 14.

"NEVER DISAPPOINT."

New Stationery You will get attention-compelling Letter-boards, Envelopes and stationery stationery when you place your orders with us.

THE SERVICE SHOP BYRON S. ADAMS, 512 11th St. Business-Bringing Prices at BARKER'S Lumber & Millwork.

Quality Work—Quick Service. 649 N. Y. Ave. 1517 7th St.

A. C. BOYER & SON, INC., TAILORS, Formerly of 302 F St. N.W. Are now located at 1010 10th (around the corner, just below F).

New Window Shades Will transform your house. Order direct at factory, 302 F St. N.W.

The Shade Shop, 733 12th St. N.W. For RENT—ROOMS IN THE STAR building: two-room suite, fourth floor, overlooking Pennsylvania, rent $30 per month, and one large room, third floor, overlooking 11th St., $40 per month, including service. Inquire Room 100, Star building.

LUXURIOUS BATHS. HAVE COLBERT INSTALL A LION HOT-WATER HEATER. No. 12, complete $16.50. With 22 ft. copper coil, $18.50.

MAURICE J. COLBERT, 621 F St. N.W. 3016. ELEGANT APARTMENTS FOR RENT IN THE WASHINGTON NEW BUILDING, 308 F St. N.W. 1, 2, 3 AND 4 ROOMS AND BATH. Inquire Room 100, Star building.

MAKE 7 ROOMS AND 3 BATHS. OPEN FOR INSPECTION. L. W. GILMORES, 1416 F St. N.W.

PALMISTRY. CONSULT ZANCIG, THE PSYCHIC. Advice given on all affairs of life. Studio, 601 14th St. N.W. Phone Main 419.

HAVE YOUR HAND READ BY MR. DAUGH, the well known scientific palmist. Readings, $1 only by appointment. Phone North 1150. Studio, 1625 Q St. N.W.

SPRITUALISM. MISS J. E. MATHY, SPIRITUAL MEDIUM. 1112 10th St. N.W. Meetings, Mon., 7:30 p.m.; Wed., 2 p.m., and Fri., 1:30 p.m. $25. A message to each. Daily readings, 10c. North 1150.

DUNNE PLURALITY, 85,000; LOWDEN WINS BY 100,000

Lorimer Defeated by 1,597, Losing Home Precinct—Other Illinois Results.

CHICAGO, September 15.—Returns from the Illinois primary election indicate that Gov. E. F. Dunne's plurality for the democratic nomination for governor will be $5,000, and that of Frank O. Lowden on the republican ticket, 100,000.

The total vote cast in the state was only $7 per cent of the vote cast for governor in 1912, according to estimates. The total Wednesday was 653,183, of which 423,261 were republican and 229,882 democratic.

O'Hara Is Defeated. Defeat of Lieut. Gov. Barratt O'Hara, democrat, for renomination by Henry W. Hartman of Chicago seemed assured by late down-state returns, but O'Hara issued a statement last night saying complete returns would show him nominated.

Returns indicate the victory of Richard J. Barr of Joliet over Edward J. Brundage of Chicago, for the republican attorney generalship nomination by a small plurality.

For representative at large the nomination of Medill McCormick by the republicans was certain. For his running mate former Senator William E. Mason was strengthening his lead over H. M. Chipperfield, incumbent. Representative William Elza Williams has been renominated by the democrats and returns indicate that Joseph O. Kostner of Chicago would win over Everett Jennings by about 5,000 for the other place.

Lorimer Loses Out. In the sixth congressional district William Lorimer, former United States senator, was defeated in his fight for the republican nomination for Congress by Arthur W. Fulton by a plurality of 1,597. Lorimer lost his home precinct.

Emmerson's plurality in the race for the republican nomination for secretary of state is estimated about 60,000. Russell C. Stevenson has been nominated by about 45,000. Brady, democratic candidate for state auditor, will have a plurality of about 20,000, it is estimated.

Fairbanks Boosts Merchant Marine. KANSAS CITY, Mo., September 15.—Adequate provision for the nurturing and advancement of the United States merchant marine was advocated as a national necessity in an address here last night, by Charles W. Fairbanks, republican nominee for Vice President.

"A merchant marine second to none should be America's boast," he declared, and gave the party's pledge for its furtherance.

EXECUTIVE LAUDED BY VICE PRESIDENT

Thomas R. Marshall, Accepting Renomination, Praises Administration.

DECLARES CRITICS FAIL TO SUGGEST REMEDIES

Martin H. Glynn, in Speech of Notification, Asserts Prosperity of Country Presages Victory.

INDIANAPOLIS, September 15.—Thomas R. Marshall formally accepted the democratic renomination for the vice presidency here last night, and for additional honor, he said, "but in the hope that I may assist in the re-election of Woodrow Wilson, who has not walked where the path has led, but who has walked where there was no path and who has left a trail."

In a speech of acceptance, phrased in characteristic vein, the Vice President sketched briefly the legislative achievements of the administration, in which he said he had been "an onlooker," and eulogized the President as "this man who brooded over the republic in storm-tossed times and by mere words spoke peace on the troubled seas of international politics."

A changed administration, he declared, would not dare repeat a single one of the important measures put on the statute books since March 4, 1913. Wanting an issue, he continued, the republicans had turned to foreign affairs, claiming such measures as "Bryan Americanism," which they could not define.

"The American people this year have made their own issue," said Mr. Marshall. "Those that the parties present may be only side issues of real issue of this campaign is that thought which goes with the father to his work or mother to her home, or wife or sweethearts every morning, and which is the heart of the matter with them at every fireside and goes to the heart of them in every home, and that is the issue of the President of the United States continue to so patiently manage our international affairs as to maintain honorable peace."

"U. S. 'The One Peaceful Spot.'"

"The one bright, peaceful spot under the sun this day is America, and it is so because the President pleads guilty to the charge of using words rather than shot and shell to lead the world toward a seemingly far-distant goal, where peace and justice in fetters which it can never break, then these are the hours for mere words."

The Vice President made a caustic reference to the issue of Theodore Roosevelt to accept the progressive presidential renomination, declaring the former President would lead at Armageddon, but who, alas, deserted at Bull Moose Run, and now he turned his back on the Holy Land."

He predicted that the issues put forward by the republicans would not be accepted as normal, adding, "You cannot interfere with a bridegroom in the tariff nor a widow in the coffin trust."

The important question of what the republicans would have done regarding the Lusitania, Mexico and Belgium, said the Vice President, had not been answered by the party's presidential candidate, Mr. Hughes. He added that "from Americanism" should be categorically defined by those who had coined it, and declared the people would not be willing to discharge a doctor because he was criticized by another who offered no remedy.

As to "Firm Americanism."

"In my opinion," said Mr. Marshall, "the average American wants to know who is in the partnership with Candidate Hughes in this 'Firm Americanism.' Does the firm consist of Hughes and Roosevelt, of Hughes and Hohenzollern or of Hughes, surviving partner of the firm of Hughes and Huerta?"

"Would the republican party, if it had been in power, have declared war on Germany entered Belgium or when the Lusitania was submerged, or because the allies have violated the rights of neutral trade? Will the republican party, if it comes into power, intervene in Mexico?"

What views did the republican party in the Congress of the United States entertain with reference to Belgium, to Lusitania, to the Lusitania and to the Mexican situation? Why, if it was displeased with the conduct of the President of the United States, did it not offer resolutions upon one or more of these subjects and place itself upon record?"

What does the republican candidate for President think he would have done or would do?

"In regard to Mexico, let the republicans say that they will intervene. Let them announce their purpose to invade that country and police it, and if they will not do this let them keep silence. Mere criticism is not constructive. Nobody discharges one doctor, whom another criticizes for his treatment, unless the second offers a better remedy. Post-mortems may discover diseases, but they do not regenerate."

Panics No Longer Dreaded.

"Who now wants to hear about the banking and currency system of this country? The honest business man no longer dreads a panic nor doubts that with good security his money will be infinitely unimpaired. Who longer denies that government should protect both person and property, and that each should contribute to that end? Who, then, would repeal the income tax amendment, which was 'too broad'?"

He declared that the republican party would not dare repeat a single one of the important measures put on the statute books since March 4, 1913.

Wanting an issue, he continued, the republicans had turned to foreign affairs, claiming such measures as "Bryan Americanism," which they could not define.

"The American people this year have made their own issue," said Mr. Marshall. "Those that the parties present may be only side issues of real issue of this campaign is that thought which goes with the father to his work or mother to her home, or wife or sweethearts every morning, and which is the heart of the matter with them at every fireside and goes to the heart of them in every home, and that is the issue of the President of the United States continue to so patiently manage our international affairs as to maintain honorable peace."

"U. S. 'The One Peaceful Spot.'"

"The one bright, peaceful spot under the sun this day is America, and it is so because the President pleads guilty to the charge of using words rather than shot and shell to lead the world toward a seemingly far-distant goal, where peace and justice in fetters which it can never break, then these are the hours for mere words."

The Vice President made a caustic reference to the issue of Theodore Roosevelt to accept the progressive presidential renomination, declaring the former President would lead at Armageddon, but who, alas, deserted at Bull Moose Run, and now he turned his back on the Holy Land."

He predicted that the issues put forward by the republicans would not be accepted as normal, adding, "You cannot interfere with a bridegroom in the tariff nor a widow in the coffin trust."

The important question of what the republicans would have done regarding the Lusitania, Mexico and Belgium, said the Vice President, had not been answered by the party's presidential candidate, Mr. Hughes. He added that "from Americanism" should be categorically defined by those who had coined it, and declared the people would not be willing to discharge a doctor because he was criticized by another who offered no remedy.

As to "Firm Americanism."

"In my opinion," said Mr. Marshall, "the average American wants to know who is in the partnership with Candidate Hughes in this 'Firm Americanism.' Does the firm consist of Hughes and Roosevelt, of Hughes and Hohenzollern or of Hughes, surviving partner of the firm of Hughes and Huerta?"

"Would the republican party, if it had been in power, have declared war on Germany entered Belgium or when the Lusitania was submerged, or because the allies have violated the rights of neutral trade? Will the republican party, if it comes into power, intervene in Mexico?"

What views did the republican party in the Congress of the United States entertain with reference to Belgium, to Lusitania, to the Lusitania and to the Mexican situation? Why, if it was displeased with the conduct of the President of the United States, did it not offer resolutions upon one or more of these subjects and place itself upon record?"

What does the republican candidate for President think he would have done or would do?

"In regard to Mexico, let the republicans say that they will intervene. Let them announce their purpose to invade that country and police it, and if they will not do this let them keep silence. Mere criticism is not constructive. Nobody discharges one doctor, whom another criticizes for his treatment, unless the second offers a better remedy. Post-mortems may discover diseases, but they do not regenerate."

Panics No Longer Dreaded.

"Who now wants to hear about the banking and currency system of this country? The honest business man no longer dreads a panic nor doubts that with good security his money will be infinitely unimpaired. Who longer denies that government should protect both person and property, and that each should contribute to that end? Who, then, would repeal the income tax amendment, which was 'too broad'?"

He declared that the republican party would not dare repeat a single one of the important measures put on the statute books since March 4, 1913.

Wanting an issue, he continued, the republicans had turned to foreign affairs, claiming such measures as "Bryan Americanism," which they could not define.

"The American people this year have made their own issue," said Mr. Marshall. "Those that the parties present may be only side issues of real issue of this campaign is that thought which goes with the father to his work or mother to her home, or wife or sweethearts every morning, and which is the heart of the matter with them at every fireside and goes to the heart of them in every home, and that is the issue of the President of the United States continue to so patiently manage our international affairs as to maintain honorable peace."

to suit the republican candidate for President when advising the New York legislature? Who now thinks that it would be better to let the careless or semi-dishonest business man run on until he has involved himself in the coils of the criminal law rather than by advice, admonition and reproof from the federal trade commission keep him in the ways of fair and honest business making power? Who would not provide for the erection of powder, dynamite and nitrate plants rather than to trust this entire power to private patriotism? Who would not see the government engage temporarily in shipping rather than have the country return to the old slavish customs of the sea? Who balks at good roads, rural credits, agricultural education and federal aid for the betterment in every way of men and conditions?

"All these measures received more or less support from members of the minority. A changed administration would not dare to repeal a single one of them."

Glynn Praises Administration.

Martin H. Glynn, in his speech on Friday, Mr. Marshall of his nomination, summed up the results of the administration of Woodrow Wilson, replied to critics of the administration and set forth the reasons why he believed Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall should be re-elected.

Mr. Glynn described the Wilson administration as one "that in efficiency of service and in responsiveness to popular will has had no rival in this country in the last fifty years."

Concerning it, he said: "The historian of the future will say that into the laws of the nation were written not only the pledges of the democratic platform, but the pledges of the progressive platform and the pledge of the republican platform that served public interests and fostered public policy."

Asserting that Woodrow Wilson would be the next President and Mr. Marshall the next Vice President, Mr. Glynn said that the most potent reason for this was "lies in the great human appeal of the policy and performance of the administration in which you have been second in command."

Cites Prosperity Prevailing.

"The fact remains," said Mr. Glynn, "that under a democratic President and a democratic Congress this country is enjoying the greatest prosperity within its existence. The business is here, the work is here, the money is here and no prophecy of our opponents can puff them away. Our banks are stacked with money, our mills are filled with goods they never revealed before. And the song of this prosperity, the hum of this industry is louder than all the war songs in the world."

WHY TAFT FAVORS HUGHES.

Ex-President Writes Letter Stating Objections to President Wilson.

NEW YORK, September 15.—In his first campaign utterance, in a letter to the Hughes National College League, made public here, William H. Taft attacked the present administration.

There are so many reasons why Mr. Wilson should not be continued at the head of the administration," the former President wrote, "that some important ones are apt to be forgotten in their multiplicity. It is of the highest importance that in the very critical issues that are to be met in connection with the ending of the war we should have a consistent and intelligible policy of a constructive and courageous nature, and this cannot be predicated on a conditional year, adding, 'You cannot interfere with a bridegroom in the tariff nor a widow in the coffin trust.'

The important question of what the republicans would have done regarding the Lusitania, Mexico and Belgium, said the Vice President, had not been answered by the party's presidential candidate, Mr. Hughes. He added that "from Americanism" should be categorically defined by those who had coined it, and declared the people would not be willing to discharge a doctor because he was criticized by another who offered no remedy.

As to "Firm Americanism."

"In my opinion," said Mr. Marshall, "the average American wants to know who is in the partnership with Candidate Hughes in this 'Firm Americanism.' Does the firm consist of Hughes and Roosevelt, of Hughes and Hohenzollern or of Hughes, surviving partner of the firm of Hughes and Huerta?"

"Would the republican party, if it had been in power, have declared war on Germany entered Belgium or when the Lusitania was submerged, or because the allies have violated the rights of neutral trade? Will the republican party, if it comes into power, intervene in Mexico?"

What views did the republican party in the Congress of the United States entertain with reference to Belgium, to Lusitania, to the Lusitania and to the Mexican situation? Why, if it was displeased with the conduct of the President of the United States, did it not offer resolutions upon one or more of these subjects and place itself upon record?"

What does the republican candidate for President think he would have done or would do?

"In regard to Mexico, let the republicans say that they will intervene. Let them announce their purpose to invade that country and police it, and if they will not do this let them keep silence. Mere criticism is not constructive. Nobody discharges one doctor, whom another criticizes for his treatment, unless the second offers a better remedy. Post-mortems may discover diseases, but they do not regenerate."

Panics No Longer Dreaded.

"Who now wants to hear about the banking and currency system of this country? The honest business man no longer dreads a panic nor doubts that with good security his money will be infinitely unimpaired. Who longer denies that government should protect both person and property, and that each should contribute to that end? Who, then, would repeal the income tax amendment, which was 'too broad'?"

He declared that the republican party would not dare repeat a single one of the important measures put on the statute books since March 4, 1913.

Wanting an issue, he continued, the republicans had turned to foreign affairs, claiming such measures as "Bryan Americanism," which they could not define.

"The American people this year have made their own issue," said Mr. Marshall. "Those that the parties present may be only side issues of real issue of this campaign is that thought which goes with the father to his work or mother to her home, or wife or sweethearts every morning, and which is the heart of the matter with them at every fireside and goes to the heart of them in every home, and that is the issue of the President of the United States continue to so patiently manage our international affairs as to maintain honorable peace."

"U. S. 'The One Peaceful Spot.'"

"The one bright, peaceful spot under the sun this day is America, and it is so because the President pleads guilty to the charge of using words rather than shot and shell to lead the world toward a seemingly far-distant goal, where peace and justice in fetters which it can never break, then these are the hours for mere words."

The Vice President made a caustic reference to the issue of Theodore Roosevelt to accept the progressive presidential renomination, declaring the former President would lead at Armageddon, but who, alas, deserted at Bull Moose Run, and now he turned his back on the Holy Land."

He predicted that the issues put forward by the republicans would not be accepted as normal, adding, "You cannot interfere with a bridegroom in the tariff nor a widow in the coffin trust."

The important question of what the republicans would have done regarding the Lusitania, Mexico and Belgium, said the Vice President, had not been answered by the party's presidential candidate, Mr. Hughes. He added that "from Americanism" should be categorically defined by those who had coined it, and declared the people would not be willing to discharge a doctor because he was criticized by another who offered no remedy.

As to "Firm Americanism."

"In my opinion," said Mr. Marshall, "the average American wants to know who is in the partnership with Candidate Hughes in this 'Firm Americanism.' Does the firm consist of Hughes and Roosevelt, of Hughes and Hohenzollern or of Hughes, surviving partner of the firm of Hughes and Huerta?"

"Would the republican party, if it had been in power, have declared war on Germany entered Belgium or when the Lusitania was submerged, or because the allies have violated the rights of neutral trade? Will the republican party, if it comes into power, intervene in Mexico?"

What views did the republican party in the Congress of the United States entertain with reference to Belgium, to Lusitania, to the Lusitania and to the Mexican situation? Why, if it was displeased with the conduct of the President of the United States, did it not offer resolutions upon one or more of these subjects and place itself upon record?"

What does the republican candidate for President think he would have done or would do?

"In regard to Mexico, let the republicans say that they will intervene. Let them announce their purpose to invade that country and police it, and if they will not do this let them keep silence. Mere criticism is not constructive. Nobody discharges one doctor, whom another criticizes for his treatment, unless the second offers a better remedy. Post-mortems may discover diseases, but they do not regenerate."

Panics No Longer Dreaded.

"Who now wants to hear about the banking and currency system of this country? The honest business man no longer dreads a panic nor doubts that with good security his money will be infinitely unimpaired. Who longer denies that government should protect both person and property, and that each should contribute to that end? Who, then, would repeal the income tax amendment, which was 'too broad'?"

He declared that the republican party would not dare repeat a single one of the important measures put on the statute books since March 4, 1913.

TO ASSIST AT POLICE FUND BENEFIT, AMERICAN LEAGUE PARK, TOMORROW.

LEFT TO RIGHT: FRONT ROW, MISS TICIE ANDES, MISS RUTH BARROWS, MISS ELSIE KELLEY, MIDDLE ROW, MISS REETA BROWN, MISS EVANGELINE SULLIVAN, MISS GRACE STOVER, MISS ELLA MOYERS; BACK ROW, MISS MARGARET BISSET (CHAIRMAN), MISS IRMA KLOEPFINGER, MISS HALIE STUBBS.

PRIZES IN PLENTY; ENTRIES ARE MANY

Big Day Certain at Police Carnival and Athletic Games.

THREE GREAT ATHLETES COMING FROM NEW YORK

All Members of American Olympic Team—Every Precinct Has Relay Team Entered.

Prizes of every kind and description, from large silver cups to gold medals and from a live owl to a ton of coal, will be given to winning police athletes in the police carnival and athletic games to be held at American League Park tomorrow.

The prizes have been given by the business men of the city and are plentiful enough to tempt any policeman, whether athletic or not. When the events begin tomorrow at 2 p.m. 300 men will have signed entry blanks for the many field and track events. Sprinting entries are so numerous that several trial heats will have to be run off before the finals can be held.

Two Big Relay Races.

In addition to the relay race for the police championship there will be a cent known as the relay race for the federal championship. Three teams from the bureau of engraving and printing, navy yard and district building will enter this event, the prize being a handsome silver trophy. Police relay teams from every precinct will compete for the police championship. The winning precinct will receive a silver cup and members of the team individual medals.

Of great interest to followers of track sport will be the appearance of three of the fastest athletes in the world, the trio being New York policemen who were members of the Olympic team representing the United States at the Stockholm games. These men have all made and broken records of every kind. They are Patrick Macdonald, weight thrower, Egon Erickson, high jumper, and John J. Eller, hurdler. They will endeavor to break their own records at the games tomorrow.

The regular program includes short dashes of 75 and 100 yards, for various police athletes, arranged by term of service and weight. There will be a tug of war.

Mr. Eller, a brother of Dr. Robert Eller of this city, former Georgetown University athlete star, arrived in the city last night. He went to the American League Park at noon today to assist Melville Hazen in laying out the field.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.

Mr. Eller said that "Mat" McGrath, the New York police Olympic star, who was expected to appear in the games here tomorrow, but who injured himself in a fall, has been released from the hospital and will endeavor to make the trip to Washington, although he will not be able to compete.